  - This is done in one class period and it's done in their pod classes. One class period a month.
  - The faculty is being trained, as well, and plans to use all the same language and bring up the sources of strength topics in class as they are presented to the students
  - CCRPs - these will start the week after Thanksgiving (College and Career Readiness Plan)

  - Matt talked about gathering information from faculty members about what they like about the school and what would they would like to improve. Is there a way of asking the teachers... Give me your top things about what is going on in middle school and what are the top things you would change? He wants to know how to make things better for our educators here at school and make the lives of our students better.
  - Alison asked BJ to do an informal survey with the faculty about what things we do well and what we could fix. BJ is going to conduct a survey with one teacher from each subject. BJ shared teachers get surveyed a lot and are feeling a bit of survey-fatigue, that he having various and purposeful conversations will solicit an overall feeling.
